Virtual National Conference

THE CAAV AND AGRICULTURAL VALUERS

The CAAV

The CAAV is the national specialist professional body representing, briefing and qualifying those acting and advising on agricultural and rural property and business matters across the whole United Kingdom. Founded in 1910 to provide a national organisation with professional authority to represent valuers and ensure professional standards, long established experience, enthusiasm and forward-looking members have maintained the nationally recognised status of the CAAV.

Representing Valuers to governments, other organisations and the public

Briefing Valuers through the website, with conferences and publications

Qualifying Valuers with demanding examinations for Fellowship (FAAV) to mark a specialism in agricultural and rural professional matters.

What is an Agricultural Valuer?

An essential and trusted adviser to farmers, landowners and others for matters to do with agricultural and rural property and business using their professionalism, practicality and ability to see the business in the round.

Valuers apply their professional expertise to help their clients achieve best value whether that is for the sale or purchase of property, letting of a farm, dwelling or commercial premises, negotiating compensation following utility works, securing finance for rural investment, implementing a diversification project or providing strategic business advice.

They have a thorough knowledge of country life, understand the relevant law, keep abreast of government regulations and have a strong sense of practicality in times when there are many new or increasing pressures on and opportunities in the countryside. At all times they act professionally and focus on adding value to their clients.
